They did not forget to water the flowers

Hi there! What have you been up to lately? Julia and I together with our friends at qaSignature, had a really busy summer! Thank you for asking. But I am not talking about long beach walks this time! You are right – business is great and we are seeing 500% growth this year! So, if you would like to find out about what one of our clients were able to accomplish this summer, stick around.

In my July newsletter I went over the concept of automation irrigation system for your software development organization. If you have been busy digging up your own garden or, God forbid, went on vacation this summer and missed July's copy, you can always get a free archive version here.

Anyway, to sum it up, water them automatically and they will grow! Remember?

Our friends at INSCI did a great job implementing an automation-testing system for their products. And flowers of Sony Pictures as a client came up!

Congratulations to INSCI Corporation with a successful debut of ActiveMedia 5.5 and great success with one of their new client Sony Pictures and Television.

I would be happy to hear how automation-testing implementation is going for your company and some challenges that you have so we can address them in my upcoming newsletters. And more importantly – do you see a good harvest this year?

As always please follow this link to send your news!

Enjoy the good weather while it lasts.
